

Department of Pre-university Training of Foreign Nationals (DPTFN)

Kazan State Power Engineering University (KSPEU) is one of the three specialized Power Engineering institutions in Russia.

There is a Department of pre-university training of foreign nationals at the University.

This department is aimed to teach Russian to individuals, as well as to improve their basic knowledge of general subjects in Russian. The main objective of training is to prepare foreign nationals to enroll in KSPEU and other Russian universities.

The department of pre-university training of foreign nationals enrolls all interested individuals for the preparatory courses on the following conditions:

- by the assignment of the International Department of the Ministry of Education and Science of the Russian Federation;

The preparatory courses start in October.

The duration of courses is 10 months.
